

SONG FOR EWAN

C                                  F   G   C
Hello precious one, so small and frail
                                F                                  C                                  G
May you grow to be strong and may your strength never fail
                                C                                  F                                  G   C
'Though you enter a world of sorrow and pain
                                F                                  C                                  G
May you find peace and may wisdom be your reign
                                F                                  G                                  C                                  F
Go forward with laughter and joy in your heart
                                F                                  G                                  C
Be positive in everything you do
                                F                                  G                                  C                                  F
Always believe in what you seek to achieve
                                F                                  G                                  C
And I will believe in you

This whole world is yours to paint and explore
May your colours be vibrant, may your canvas be broad
May each path you choose be sure and bold
May the secrets of the universe be yours to unfold

May your journey be exciting, may you reach for the stars
May all your dreams come true
Should you walk on Mars or through war-torn lands
May your aim always be true

The love I feel is deep and real
It's pouring down on you
My heart is on my sleeve for all to see
As I sing this song for you

But hush for now, may your life bring joy
And may you find happiness too
And when I am blessed with a child of my own
May he or she be beautiful like you
